Short Description: In this season of Quilting Arts, host Susan Brubaker Knapp joins today's top quilt artists to create art quilts inspired by bold spirit and artistic curiosity. They test new techniques, bend the rules and shake things up to make quilts that break new ground. Explore the use of fabric, stitches, paint, found objects and even rusty metal to sew, dye and embellish quilts. Add layers, strip away color and use sheer fabrics and plastics to create special effects. Be bold, as you make time for contemporary quilting every day.

Episode Descriptions:

#2101 Shapes

Take basic shapes and morph them. Textile artist MJ Kinman edits gemstone images and explores them from the inside out. Quilt maker Cindy Grisdela takes the fear out of curved piecing with improv circles and curved strips.

#2102 For the Love of Stitch

A simple stitch is a powerful design tool. Wearable art maker Jenny Lyon shares tips for free motion quilting. Textile artist MJ Kinman uses non-directional patterns to create a see-through effect in jewel quilts. Art quilter Susan Brubaker Knapp melts bubbles and stitches high-density synthetic materials for artful effects.

#2103 Imaginative Design

Take innovative ideas and turn them into quilts. Author and quilter Joyce Becker designs charming appliqué landscape quilts. Photographer and quilt maker Heidi Proffetty uses today's technology to design mosaic quilts. Luana Rubin explores the colors and patterns that inspired artist William Morris.

#2104 Improv

Break loose from the tried and true - improvise! Abstract art quilter Cindy Grisdela makes colorful improv blocks from scraps and sets them in various ways. Textile artist Malka Dubrawsky uses primarily black and white to make bold designs. Host Susan Brubaker Knapp mashes it all up with interesting embellishments she creates.

#2105 Tech/Computer Design

Quilt artists use technology to push the creative limits. Designer Heidi Proffetty edits photos and turns the digital images into mosaic quilts. Fiber artist Martha Wolfe uses a photo editing program to filter and grayscale fabrics to determine value. Susan Brubaker Knapp uses her camera as a design tool to assess value and composition.

#2106 Inspired by Color

Experiment with color. Fabric dye specialist Cindy Lohbeck folds and clamps fabric in the tradition of Shibori dyeing to create color-rich patterns. Modern quilter Timna Tarr creates different effects in colors capes by changing the background fabric. Luana Rubin discusses the industry trend of digital fabric printing.

#2107 Inspired to Quilt

Search for inspiration in familiar surroundings. Fiber artist Sherry Kleinman makes a family tree quilt to treasure for generations. Quilt artist Joyce Becker quickly creates charming matted landscapes that capture travel memories and make great gifts.

#2108 Texture

Look beyond fabric to add depth and texture. Teacher and fiber artist Libby Williamson adds color and patterns to found papers and collages them onto canvas or vintage linens. Artist and quilter Laurie Russman takes quilts into the third dimension by adding surface elements and thread painting.

#2109 Paint

Express your inner artist with paint. Textile artist Maggie Vanderweit uses aerial views and natural textures as she paints and over paints fabrics. Fiber artisan Lisa Walton changes things up a bit as she quilts first, then paints, to create rich, opulent designs.

#2110 Materials

Transform the everyday into something extraordinary. Mixed media artist Libby Williamson paints and stitches used tea bags to make artful books and banners. Artist and quilter Enid Gjelten Weichselbaum uses sheer fabrics to create colorful floral designs.

#2111 Asian Influences

Look to the Far East for inspiration. Fabric artist Cindy Lohbeck uses modern tools to dye fabrics in the Arashi style of shibori. Quilter Pepper Cory follows the concept of kintsugi as she up-cycles her work with respect and thoughtful use of time and resources.

#2112 Embellish with Stitch and Stuff

Add more layers to embellish art quilts. Fiber artist Joyce Becker uses organza, pastels and sparkling fibers to create new color values. Innovative quilter Libby Williamson combines soft fabric and hardware for special effects. Editor and quilter Vivika DeNegre stitches a zippered pouch with patches of beautiful Asian fabrics.

#2113 Fabric to Dye For

Experiment with dyes using water in both solid and liquid states. Quilt artist and dye specialist Cindy Lohbeck uses ice and shibori techniques to dye fabrics with bold new patterns. Textile artist Maggie Vanderweit gathers organic materials and rusted metal to dye with natural pigments that yield fabulous results.
